All the Secrets Jun 24 2019 The only way he'll agree to the story about the great and reclusive writer, D. B. Carter is if I agree to spend the week with him. He thinks that the reason that I left is that I don't want him. Nothing could be from the truth. He thinks I was insulted. He's wrong. I have a fire in my body that burns just for him. Still, I leave. He shouldn't have asked for something like that. All that it did was push me away. But I have to write this story to save my job. It won't be published for a while and I'll have time to convince him to go on the record. At least, that's what I think. But then the article comes out and he shows up at my house. He's angry. I'm mad. What happens when that fire between us starts to ignite? What happens when he pulls me close and doesn't let go? Praise for Charlotte Byrd "BEST AUTHOR YET! Charlotte has done it again! Artists' Laboratory Aug 07 2020 The Artists Laboratory series presents the more experimental and less familiar work of contemporary artists, opening up the creative process to explore the conceptual and practical concerns with which they engage. In recent years Stephen Farthing has investigated the back story of paintings, his own and those by other artists, using drawing and painting to understand their character, content and form. Examining the art-historical classifications that define the pictures, the narratives that have informed their content or the patterns they share with other works, he sifts and organises the information in drawings, and proposes conclusions in paintings. David Scott Kastan responds to this body of work, published here for the first time, with an eloquent analysis of several key pieces, while Farthing and his fellow artist Stephen Chambers discuss subjects ranging from the attitude required to write about a painting and the role that text can play in making one, to the differences in working on either side of the Atlantic.
